

Effective Student Consultation

How do you know your PSHE / Health & wellbeing programme is meeting the needs of your students?

Can you evidence the impact of your programme?

Is your team spending too much time on some curriculum areas and not on others?

Are there gaps in your current provision?

Does every cohort have the same requirements?

Is there anything specific you want to ask your students?

Have you got the data to show inspectors how your Personal Development programme is closely matched to student and school community needs?

 Our 'How Are You?' anonymous online pupil survey will do all this and much more.

 Easy to deploy using a link unique to your school.

 Can be completed in 10-20 minutes using a computer, laptop, tablet or mobile phone.

 Different versions available depending on secondary age-group. We also have a version for upper primary (Ages 7-11)

 Results quickly returned in an easy to interpret format.

Effective student consultation in 4 easy steps

1. Request your survey pack and unique student link from Chameleon PDE.
2. Deploy your survey to year groups or the whole school, you decide.
3. Tell us when you want the survey closed.
4. Receive the data.

Ways to use your data...

Use your data to celebrate the positive choices most students are making:

98% of our students do NOT smoke

77% of our students report being resilient

9 out of 10 students tell us they have NEVER been bullied

Use in teaching to challenge misperceptions:

96% of 15-16 year-olds in our school have NEVER tried cannabis, but...

they THINK almost 50% use cannabis - WHY?

Identify gaps in current provision:

75% of students want to know more about mental health

85% of students want to know more about money matters

Track how your programme improves and embeds:

% students rating our PSHE as inclusive year on year

Reassure students, parents and carers:

Sharing data with the school community, particularly good news, can be very reassuring to students, teachers and parents. The majority of young people make safe and responsible choices, however, often significantly over-estimate the level of risk taken by their peer group i.e. the belief 'everyone's doing it'. Teachers, parents and the wider community also tend to over-estimate risk-taking by young people.

Show your students in the best possible light.

Deliver evidence-based Personal Development:

We know that Ofsted and other inspectorates are looking at PSHE/ Personal Development in greater depth compared to previous years. This in part is driven by national and global events that impact our young people e.g. the rise of peer-on-peer abuse. Inspectors will expect to see how a school's Personal Development programme, including PSHE, is driven by evidence. A significant contribution to this will be pupil voice data. Our 'How Are You?' survey ensures better capture of student voice compared to use of a student council which may be less representative of the student body.

Purchasing the 'How Are You?' survey

Subscribers to our resource libraries will receive between 1 and 3 surveys per year as part of their subscription, making the cost of this even better value for money.

The survey can also be purchased separately at £300 plus VAT per year group (secondary) and £300 plus VAT per school (upper primary).

The survey pack includes:

- Unique school survey link
- Letter template for parents/carers (we strongly recommend that schools inform parents about the survey)
- Data returned in easy to view report
- Guidance document to support best use of data
- Executive summary template to highlight key findings
